Jury Indicts 33; Suggests County Build New Jail

Concluding a three-day session, the January term Richland county grand jury late yesterday returned 33 indictments, three of them secret, and recommended a new county jail "as soon as building conditions and funds permit construction."

Grand juries several times have recommended jail improvements and this one suggested that until a new jail can be built "adequate provisions be made for housing mental prisoners, repairs be made to the ceiling and jail proper, the stairway to the women's quarters be replaced with fireproof material, and the jail be given a general over-all cleaning."

The report, signed by Ralph Stanton, jury foreman, indicated 64 witnesses were examined in 37 cases. There were no indictments in four cases.

Arraignment of the persons indicted will be Saturday at 10:30 a. m., Assignment Clerk C. A. McKinley reported.

Topping the list of indictments was a first-degree manslaughter charge against John Owens, 257½ North Main street, who was originally charged with the second-degree murder of Alonzo B. Lindsay, 266½ North Main street, in an alley off North Diamond street last Nov. 2.

Other persons indicted, and their charges, include:

Defendants whose cases were ignored were Ted Dornan, charged with issuing checks with insufficient funds, Thomas Clements, accused of breaking and entering, Hillary Harris, charged with robbery, and Abe Smith, accused of robbery.

FRIGID WAVE EASES ITS GRIP

Workers Still Idle, However, In at Least Two Mansfield Industrial Plants.

Although the cold wave was easing its grip today, several hundred employes of the Westinghouse and Humphryes Manufacturing company plants remained idle as the natural gas shortage continued to hit production in the city.

Despite considerably higher temperatures, low pressure in gas lines continued.

The mercury had climbed to 32 by noon today, a 16-degree boost from the 8 a. m. reading, as reported by the Ohio Public Service Longview substation.

Furthermore, the weatherman predicted that the mercury would climb above the freezing mark and stay there through Friday.

G. K. Schooler, district manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, said today's gas situation was "a continuation of yesterday," and that the temperature has not risen enough to relieve the condition. Shut-off of the fuel came suddenly Tuesday when mechanical trouble developed in the "Big Inch" pipe line from Arkansas and Texas.

"Industries will go back to production largely on the basis of the amount of gas they use," Schooler continued. "We can't allow all the big industries to resume work at the same time. The smaller places will probably be the first to get relief."

Westinghouse officials reported yesterday [illegible] production employes were idled as ranges, refrigerators and other departments were closed by the shut-off of gas. Gerald W. Moore, president of the Humphryes Manufacturing company, said the gas shortage shut down the enameling furnaces at the plant. He declined to reveal how many workers were idle.

17 VETS SEEK TRAILER HOMES

War Veterans' applications for house trailers being provided for the county emergency housing project had climbed to 17 today, Philip Wolfe, clerk of the county commissioners, reported.

"There were four applicants waiting at the door when I opened the office this morning," Wolfe said.

Since the commissioners bought only 20 trailers, all of which are to be delivered by Feb. 15, only three more applicants can be assured of consideration for placement.

"We will keep a list of others who apply, however, because of the chance of cancellations among the first 20," Wolfe said.

The trailers are to be awarded on a basis of "first come, first served." The commissioners, two of whom are in Columbus attending a convention of township trustees and clerks today, have not set rental charges or decided whether central or individual sites are to be used for the trailers.

Meanwhile, W. B. Ford, chairman of the Mansfield housing authority, said today that the authority, said today that the whether the government will construct 24 veterans' apartments on Grace street.

He said the government is to complete 26 apartments now under construction on Hedges street. Whether it will finance construction of 24 for the Grace street site depends upon whether additional money is granted the Federal Public Housing Authority, he said.

If the FPHA doesn't procure additional funds it says it will offer local authorities the opportunity to finance completion of suspended units. The Mansfield authority has been voted $15,000 by city council, for veterans' housing.

Refuse Collectors End 22-Day Strike

PORTSMOUTH —(UP)— Refuse collection and other city services resumed here today after settlement of a strike by 100 city employes that lasted 22 days.

Collection of garbage, refuse and ashes that piled up in the city during the walkout was the city's most pressing need, and employes of other city divisions joined the returning waste department men in an effort to catch up on the huge task.

Go Easy When You Throw In Chips, Ladies

NEW YORK —(AP)— You'd better go easy on the soap chips for a while longer.

The nation's leading soap producers, here for the annual meeting of the Association of American Soap & Glycerine Producers, said prospects were not quite as bright as they may look in your corner grocery store.

Household soap powders and chips have come out of hiding in retail stores, but this does not mean the industry has caught up with demand, soap makers said.

Four of the nation's leading producers gave this explanation for the rise in soap prices:

Raw materials represent the greatest proportion of cost in soap making. Tallow accounts for the bulk of raw material cost. Under OPA, tallow was priced at about 9 cents a pound. Today it sells for 22 cents a pound, an increase of 125 per cent in raw material costs.

Soap prices have advanced 50 per cent.

"It doesn't take an economist to understand that," one producer said. "We would prefer that prices hadn't gone up, because one of these days we are going to get caught with high-priced raw materials on hand when prices start down."

2 WOMEN SOUGHT IN SADIST MURDER

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Police today pressed a search of Hollywood gay spots for two brunette women who possibly may have held Elizabeth Short captive for several days prior to her horror murder Jan. 15.

Search for the two brunettes got under way as an inquest into the Dahlia's shocking slaying was being held in the hall of justice.

Police continued hunting for a man who may have registered with "The Dahlia" at a hotel Jan. 12.

REA TO EXTEND ELECTRIC LINES TO 450 FARMS

$210,000 Project for 4-County Area Given Approval In Washington.

The way was paved today for 450 more farm homes in Richland, Ashland, Knox and Licking counties to receive electrical service.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th Ohio district announced, in a message to the News-Journal, that the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington had approved a $21,000 allocation.

The approval was granted in behalf of the Licking county Rural Electrification Co-operative in Utica, McGregor said.

C. D. Dunlap, manager of the Utica sub-station, informed the News-Journal that the appropriation will make possible servicing of 150 more miles in the district and will provide for a short extension to a few farms in Coshocton county.

* * *

20 Homes Already Serviced

He added that it will be 30 to 60 days before any field work will be done, but that some 15 to 20 homes have already been given new service.

The additional financial grant will boost the total line mileage to 1,350, and will reach out to a few farms in Muskingum, Perry, Franklin and Delaware counties, Dunlap said. The cooperative services 3,500 homes at present. The majority are in Richland, Licking, Knox and Ashland counties.

* * *

Two Sub-Stations.

The area is serviced by two sub-stations, one at Utica and the other at Fredericktown.

Dunlap said a third sub-station now under construction south of Newark is being built on a $25,000 allotment made four months ago by the electrification administra-

Dunlap said no breakdown of homes to be serviced through the appropriation had yet been made. One hundred and nineteen rural homes in Richland county are serviced through the cooperative.

EXPEDITION HAS 3RD AIR MISHAP

LITTLE AMERICA—(UP)—The Byrd Antarctic expedition suffered its third aerial mishap today when a helicopter crashed into the sea and sank 700 miles northeast of Scott island.

The pilot and single passenger both were picked up uninjured. Their names were not disclosed immediately.

The crash occurred as the plane took off from the aircraft carrier Philippine Sea. The cause was not announced.

It was the expedition's second helicopter loss. Another crashed Sunday alongside the seaplane tender Pine Island. In that crash, too, both the pilot and passenger were uninjured.

The other aerial mishap occurred Dec. 30 when a patrol plane crashed on the icy waters of Thurston peninsula. Three of the nine men aboard were killed and buried on the spot.

Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, task force commander, reported that the navy had been asked to return the bodies of the three men for burial in the United States. He said, however, that he opposed doing this and had advised Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal accordingly.

"We feel strongly that it is inadvisable to try to get the bodies out because the trip is too hazardous," Cruzen said. "We might lose somebody else trying to get them out. I think the families of those who died would not want more lives lost."

BUTTER PRICE SKIDS IN CITY

The price of butter skidded today in Mansfield to a level approaching the figure that prevailed in the days of OPA control.

Isaly Dairy company announced a drop of five cents, sending the wholesale price to 59 cents and the new retail price to 64 and 65 cents.

The wholesale price of butter under OPA was 56 cents. Isaly officials said. The government at that time paid a 16-cent-a-pound subsidy. OPA's retail ceiling price on butter was 63 cents a pound.

A&P stores announced a cent drop in butter. New price for roll butter is 64 cents; for quartered pounds 66 cents.

Enlow Wins Jaycee Award for His Contribution to City In Past Year

By AL PREYER

William W. Enlow, Mansfield service-safety director, last night received the first Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service award for the "citizen, under 36 years of age, having contributed the most permanent good to the city, of Mansfield in 1946."

Presentation of the award, which will be an annual Jaycee custom, took place before over 200 Junior Chamber members and their "bosses" at the annual Jaycee "Bosses' Night" dinner party last night in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

John Finefrock, Jaycee president, made the presentation to Enlow after a dinner and brief addresses by Robert Young, state Jaycee official; Richard Stander, Mansfield Junior Chamber executive vice president, and Reese Mills, Mansfield Chamber of Commerce president. Principal speaker was Philip Ebeling, of Dayton, state and national Jaycee leader

* * *

FINEFROCK PRAISED Enlow, 33 years old, born and reared in Mansfield, as "having handled a job in 1946 which, in many places, is carried on by two men."

The award was given for Enlow's work "in connection with the municipal airport, as health and safety chairman for the airport dedication, setting up a new purchasing department for the city, and in connection with the Clear Fork water supply project.

Enlow apparently taken by surprise, expressed his deep-felt thanks with emotion.

Enlow recently resigned as service-safety director, his resignation to become effective Jan. 31.

Ebeling, in his keynote address, recalled the fact that "bosses' night" was being held on the 27th anniversary of the founding of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, Jan. 22, 1920.

"Tonight," he said, "there are more than 1,200 Chambers in all the states and territories of the land. They have spread to 20 foreign countries so that the sun never sets on a Junior Chamber of Commerce organization."

Junior Chambers of Commerce were defined by Ebeling as "organizations of young men between the ages of 21 and 36, learning civic consciousness through constructive action.

* * *

"YOUNG MEN with the youthful attributes of open-mindedness, foresight, enthusiasm, and vitality have a great deal to offer the community," Ebeling said. "For example, Henry Brunner and Carl Stander were mayors of Mansfield before they were 30 years old."

Prizes were donated to the party by The M. O'Neil store, Fusco Cleaners, West Dry Cleaners, the Ohio theater, Mansfield Auto Wash, Laubscher's jewelry store, Bob Hoeffler's Trading Post, and Moritz brothers.

SURPRISED MAN—William W. Enlow (standing), Mansfield service-safety director, was a surprised man at last night's Jaycee Bosses' Night dinner. He was awarded the first Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service award for "the citizen, under 36 years of age, having contributed the most prominent good to the city of Mansfield in 1946." POLICE TO STEP-UP TAXICAB INSPECTION

A chronic complaint of taxicab customers—that some Mansfield companies seem at times to charge inconsistent fares—soon may be eased.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates disclosed today that he planned to step-up the police inspection of taxicabs.

He especially is interested in seeing that all taxis comply with a city ordinance requiring the posting "in conspicuous view of passengers" of the company's schedule of fares and the zones to which those fares apply.

The inspections, he said, will be conducted at irregular intervals. Police do not want to "tip the companies to get ready for them," he explained.

Mansfield's taxicab ordinance does not specify rates to be charged. This has given rise to a number of complaints to Chief Bates and to the News-Journal.

Whether justifiable or not, Bates does not know, but the theme of most complaints has been:

"I was carried no more than two blocks—and soaked half a buck."

Posting prominently in each cab of the ordinance-required schedule of fare and zone maps, the chief believes, will remove the cause for most such complaints.

Police regularly inspected taxicabs before the war, he said. During the war, however, inspections were relaxed somewhat because the shortage of auto repair parts might otherwise have forced most cabs off the road. Most companies now are re-outfitting with new cabs, Bates said, and have little excuse for operating mechanically unsafe vehicles.

Another provision in the ordinance requires that taxicabs be equipped with governors limiting speed to 35 miles an hour. This also will be checked closely in the new intensified campaign against violation of the ordinance.

Penalty for violation of the ordinance is possible suspension or revocation of license, a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100.

AIRLINES PUSH SERVICE PLEAS

Representatives of two major airlines, appearing at government hearings in Washington yesterday, pushed bids to provide trunk line service for Mansfield.

James K. Crimmins, Transcontinental and Western Air general counsel, declared potential air passengers justified approval of all its applications, including that to serve Mansfield.

John T. Lorah of United Airlines proposed inclusion of Mansfield on its schedule.

An examiner recommended inclusion of Columbus on TWA's Dayton-Toledo route but turned down seven other proposed extensions, including service to Mansfield.

The Civil Aeronautics Board now is conducting hearings on examiners' recommendations. Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner are representing Mansfield at the hearings.

TROOPS QUELL RIOTS IN CENTRAL BOMBAY

BOMBAY—(INS)—Armed British troops were rushed to the Golpitha district of central Bombay today to bolster police forced to open fire twice to quell Hindu-Moslem riots. At least ten persons were wounded.

Stone-throwing between the two religious factions touched off the demonstrations.

BIDAULT STILL HOLDS FOREIGN MINISTER POST

PARIS—(UP)—Georges Bidault, back in his old post of foreign minister, was reported today to have been promised virtually a free hand at the Moscow conference in a deal which brought his popular Republican movement (MRP) into the new French cabinet.

Premier Paul Ramadier, socialist, formed the six-party cabinet last night after five days of negotiation toward a permanent setup to replace the all-socialist 30-day interim government of Leon Blum.

This step completed France's political reconstruction under the constitution for the fourth republic, approved by voters last October, and gave the country a full constitutional setup-executive, parliamentary and judicial—for the first time in seven years.

The cabinet is made up of nine socialists, five communists, five members of the MRP, five members of the leftist rally (the radical socialists and the Democratic and socialist union of resistance) and two independent Republicans.

Bidault will speak for France at the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Moscow, scheduled for March 10. Political circles said he had a promise that he could act in the drafting of treaties with Germany and Austria without constantly calling Paris for instructions.

Bidault has been foreign minister ever since France's liberation, except for the 30 days the socialists held power.

Ramadier formed the new cabinet on the commission of socialist President Vincent Auriol and with the approval on the national assembly, where the Communists, MRP and Socialists rank one, two, three in strength.

NOBODY SEEMS TO WANT TRUCK LEFT IN MANSFIELD GARAGE 3 MONTHS AGO

Police had a "mystery truck" on their hands today. In fact, they've had it since last October, and they've searched for the owner as they would for a criminal.

Once officers thought they had the owner located, but he said the truck wasn't his.

The search, which has extended to a number of Ohio towns, began three months ago when a 1945 pick-up truck was left at the Schuster garage on South Walnut street for overnight storage.

In checking its license number, 4-DT-92, with the state patrol at Massillon, police found that it was not listed as stolen. They also learned that the license was issued to a John Johnson, of Oak Harbor.

A check with Johnson—who had since moved to Mt. Vernon—revealed that he didn't own the truck, never did own a pick-up truck and knew nothing about the stranded vehicle at Schuster's garage.

Schuster then came up with the fact that a truck at Olivesburg had lettering on the side similar to that on the side of the stranded vehicle.

That revelation shifted the search back to Oak Harbor. It seems that a George Johnson of Oak Harbor sold the Olivesburg truck to an Edward Elliot who, in turn, sold it to the Chamberlain General store at Olivesburg.

Perhaps, police figure, George Johnson owns the pick-up. On both trucks the lettering reads: "Builders Improvement Company, Oak Harbor."

With that lead to go on, police have intensified their search. But their official report as of today still reads: "further investigation will be made on this."

Senator Hopes To Avoid Mixup Like Georgia's

COLUMBUS —(UP)— A senate resolution asking for a ruling on a successor to the governorship in case of death between election and inauguration was sent to the attorney general today.

Sen. Fred G. Reiners (R.-Hamilton) introduced the resolution as an aftermath of the present mix-up in Georgia.

"All we expect to do at this time is get an opinion from the attorney general to find out where we stand. Then we can go to work either on a constitutional amendment or a bill, whichever is needed," Reiners said.

BALL PREDICTS CURB ON LABOR

Closed Shop Opponent Will Be Senate Committee's First Witness.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Sen. Ball (R) Minn., predicted today that the 80th congress will pass "some form" of labor legislation outlawing both the closed shop and industry-wide collective bargaining.

Ball, author of bills designed to accomplish these objectives, is to be an opening witness when the senate labor committee begins public hearings on overall labor legislation this afternoon.

Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach, Assistant Secretary David A. Morse, and Sen. Murray (D) Mont., were called as the day's other witnesses.

Ball said in an interview that despite bitter opposition from labor leaders he was convinced congress will support the anti-closed shop bill and its companion bar against industry-wide bargaining. He declared:

We must meet two problems: Eliminate coercion of the individual worker, and eliminate labor monopoly, which is just as bad as business monopoly."

Sens. Taft (R) Ohio, labor chairman, and Smith (R) N. J., co-authors with Ball of the revised Case bill, have declined so far to endorse the Minnesotan's closed shop and bargaining bans. Instead they have concentrated their efforts on the Ball-Taft-Smith bill creating a mediation board and outlawing both jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts.

KIDNAP VICTIM FREES SUSPECT

LODI, Calif. — (INS) — Earl Shelton, 39-year-old ex-convict, was cleared of all suspicion today in the Alice Dean Devine kidnaping case.

The 16-year old Devine girl met Shelton face-to-face on the outskirts of Lodi before dawn this morning, looked intently at him under the glare of automobile headlights and declared:

"Oh, no! That is not the man."

The strange scene for the meeting was arranged by Lodi police with a view to avoiding newsmen.

Shelton came to Lodi from San Francisco voluntarily in order to clear himself after he learned that he had been under suspicion.

Shelton, operator of a San Francisco school for models, returned to his own car for the trip home to the Bay city.

Authorities throughout California and the west continued their search for suspects in the case after Shelton was cleared.

Shelton was not at any time held by police and the meeting with the attractive Lodi kidnap victim was entirely voluntary on his part.

After the meeting, police said they would have to "start from scratch" in the search for the kidnaper.

JAPS REVEAL WALKOUT BAN

TOKYO—(INS)—Japanese labor leaders said today they will appeal to the four-power allied control council for permission to carry out a proposed general strike of government workers.

The labor leaders claimed—without confirmation—that General MacArthur had banned the strike move by two and one-half million government workers including provincial and municipal employes.

A union spokesman said petitions will be presented to the American, British, Russian and Chinese members of the control council at its Friday meeting. The petitions will claim that the Potsdam declaration and the labor policy of the far eastern commission make the projected strike a permissable weapon.

TABER INSISTS U. S. BUDGET BE BALANCED

'Why Wait?' Asks Lawmaker, Promising Action 'This Year' on Problem.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Adopting a "Why wait Until next year?" attitude, Rep. Taber (R., N. Y.) said today he intends to balance the federal budget "this year."

Taber, chairman of both the house appropriations and joint senate-house budget committees, already has disclosed plans to (1) use a "sledgehammer" on the 1948 budget and (2) re-survey all 1947 spending programs which still are awaiting actual outlays of money.

Today Taber said he would go one step further—by digging into appropriations actually voted by the last congress. The objective will be to recapture some of the money not yet spent.

Shaking a finger at OPA, the commerce department and the army and navy, the New Yorker told a reporter:

"My studies indicate very large sums that can be cut back from appropriations already made, affecting many government departments.

"Also I believe the administration has underestimated revenues in the current year by $1,000,000,000.

"I believe we can balance the budget this year as well as next year."

* * *

Treasury Sees Deficit.

The treasury now estimates current year spending at $42,500,000,000 and revenues at $40,200,000,000, leaving a deficit of around $2,200,000,000.

Mr. Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 calls for the first balanced budget since 1930.

But Taber contends that is too long to wait.

"I have talked with representatives of many government departments and members of congress," he said. "Why over, at OPA they still have 15,000 employes, with 7,500 doing absolutely nothing. There's a sample of what I mean.

"Then there's the commerce department. Anybody can walk over and see. They don't have to take my word for it. A lot of the new units are sitting around doing nothing. There are set-ups in the social security administration that need trimming.

"Over in the navy they have some setups where five men are doing what one man should.

"One man I know took a walk through the Pentagon and he counted until he got to 65 officers and other (army) employes. He couldn't count five per cent of them working.

"I am finding that these samples represent the usual picture."

Spokesmen for most of the agencies Taber cited were reluctant to comment. However, Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, head of the Office of Temporary Controls, said of the lawmaker's criticism of OPA:

"I don't think that's a fair statement."

Taber has said previously he wanted to separate 1,000,000 persons from the federal payroll.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) of the house ways and means committee, author of a bill to cut individual income taxes 20 per cent, said if Taber makes the savings he foresees then tax cutting will be easy.

WOMAN ADMITS ROBBING BANKS

DES MOINES, Ia. —(INS)— Des Moines police today held an attractive, 35-year-old mother of two 'teen age daughters for the daring holdup of a bank.

She was Mrs. Opal Dixon, a waitress. Police said the woman also admitted robbing a St. Louis bank last Dec. 26.

Mrs. Dixon was arrested late yesterday by the Des Moines police shortly after she flourished a hypodermic syringe, which she warned was filled with nitroglycerine, at a teller in the Des Moines Bank and Trust company.

Teller Rex Cisco, 28, said the woman thrust a brown, manila envelope at him and said:

"This is a stickup. I mean business. Gimme what you got."

Cisco stuffed approximately $3,000 into the envelope and the woman fled.

A description of her was broadcast and she was arrested 45 minutes later as she left a downtown office building.

Des Moines Police Chief Jack Brophy said Mrs. Dixon told him she committed the holdup because she was "tired of living on nothing."

In the robbery of the United Bank and Trust company, at St. Louis last month, police said Mrs. Dixon got away with $582.

3 REJECT JOB OFFER BY U. N.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Three prominent Americans under consideration for one of the highest posts in the United Nations have turned down the job, it was reported today.

Three others still are under consideration, but Secretary-General Trygve Lie of Norway is "having trouble" finding the American he wants for the post, reliable sources said. The job, that of assistant secretary-general in charge of administrative and financial affairs, pays $15,000 a year and the salary is tax-free.

The men who reportedly have said "no" to Lie for various and undisclosed reasons are:

Wilson W. Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville, Ky., who recently resigned as President Truman's federal housing expediter.

Harold D. Smith, Detroit, former director of the United States Bureau of Budget and more recently the deputy governor of the International Bank.

Adlai Stevenson, Bloomington, Ill., publisher and a member of the American delegation at the last meeting of the UN General Assembly.

The three men still on Lie's list are Milton Eisenhower, president of the University of Kansas and brother of Army Chief of Staff Dwight D. Eisenhower; Herbert Emmerich, former federal public housing administrator and Julius C. Holmes, former assistant secretary of state in charge of the U. S. foreign service.

ATOM COMMISSION DELAYS MEETINGS

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(INS)—The atomic energy commission decided Wednesday to postpone further meetings until after the security council has resumed disarmament discussions Feb. 4

The twelve-nation body which drafted the controversial report with its non-veto Baruch plan for atom control, inspection and punishment, considers itself stymied by the deadlock between Russia and the United States on disarmament procedure.

Although the immediate task awaiting the commission is the planning and creation of the governing authority designated to rule over all atomic aspects, a common agreement was reached through informal soundings that final action by the security council should be awaited before starting 1947 sittings.

INDUSTRIALIST DIES

ABERDEEN, Wash. — (AP) — Harry S. Knox, past president of the United States Lawn Tennis association and former Chicago industrialist, died Tuesday night.

'Sizzler,' Author of Catchy Psychology, To Spearhead City's Postwar Business

The man who thought up the slogan, "Don't write—telegraph" and "Say it with flowers," among scores of others, is going to give Mansfield's postwar retail business hopes a shot in the arm.

V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Mansfield Retail Merchants association, announced today that Elmer (Sizzle) Wheeler would appear Wednesday, Feb. 12 at 8 p. m., in John Simpson Junior high school.

He is being brought to Mansfield by the retail merchants to speak at a mass meeting of all employes of the 120 members of the association.

Admittance will be by ticket only.

"Members of the Retail Merchants Association should request their tickets early," Lodde said, "for Simpson auditorium can accommodate no more than 1,000 persons."

Wheeler's appearance marks the first time the MRMA has attempted to bring a speaker of such national note to Mansfield to speak to the clerks who form the first-line of attack in Mansfield's bid for the predicted post-war competitive market.

* * *

IT IS THE INITIAL step, Lodde explained, in a campaign designed to enhance Mansfield's right to the center of a large and rich retail trading area.

ELMER WHEELER

Wheeler has spoken in dozens of cities. In Dallas, Texas, a crowd of excess of 20,000 persons turned out to hear him. Other cities responded with similar crowds.

Nicknamed "the Sizzler," Wheeler is billed as the "shortest speaker in America." He broke all audience records last year in winning America's first "oscar" as a public speaker.

* * *

AUTHOR OF EIGHT books on salesmanship, he has just published a book on speaking called, "Tested Public Speaking."

During the war, he wrote "Take an Hour to Say No." It is known as Elmer's little black note book and has been reprinted 7,000,000 times. His sponsors say that is a world record.

Wheeler made fame with the catchy psychology, "Don't sell the steak, sell the sizzle." It's the sizzle, Wheeler says, that sells the steak and not the cow. "The sizzle is the tang in the cheese, the crunch in the cracker, the whiff in the coffee, pucker in the pickles," he contends.

He's a former newspaperman who set out 17 years ago to find the "magic words that make people respond" and made a national reputation as a speaker and writer when he did just that.

ARREST OF AXIS SALLY ORDERED

FRANKFURT —(U.P.)— Mildred Gillars, the American "Axis Sally" of the German radio, was rearrested here Tuesday on orders of the department of justice, U. S. army officials reported.

Miss Gillars, a native of Portland, Me., and one-time resident of Ohio, was released by military authorities last month. She had been arrested in Berlin in March, 1945, on suspicion of treasonable activity in broadcasting Nazi propaganda during the war.

The faded blonde, reputed to have been at one time the highest paid propaganda broadcaster in Berlin, was freed Dec. 24. No official reason for her re-arrest was offered.

Brain Extract Is Penicillin Rival

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Recent scientific experiments indicated that brain tissue extract may rival penicillin in combating certain infections, the Journal of Bacteriology reports.

The journal said that Dr Leo G. Nutini and Sister Eva Maria Lynch, scientists at the Institutum Divi Thomae, Cincinnati, found that the brain tissue extract was superior to penicillin when used in animals infected by the bacterium known as staphylococcus aureus. Staphylococcus aureus is the organism causing such conditions as boils, abcenses, some types of food poisoning, one form of meningitis, pneumonia and bone infection.

Judge Is Obliging, Sends Man to Pen

AKRON —(INS)— Gerold Heft, a 42-year-old unemployed factory workers of nearby Peninsula, was on his way today to the Ohio penitentiary—at his own request. On probation for automobile theft, Heft strolled into the court of Summit County Judge V. D. Emmons and said:

"I believe that sending me to the pen would be the best thing you could do for me."

He added that he hoped a term in prison would cure him of alcoholism which he believed is "ruining my life." Judge Emmons revoked Heft's probation, automatically sending him to the penitentiary.

Prostate Gland Trouble?

I'm a railroad man and for over 3 years had difficulty working because of backaches due to Prostate Gland trouble. Doctor's formula proved of great benefit and before and since his death have sold them (now called Watt's Suppositories) to railroad men and others the country over. Fine testimonials and repeat business show the good work they do. Backache, getting up nights, often indicate an inflamed Prostate Gland. I guarantee your money back if not given relief. One Dozen Watt's Suppositories, $1.25; 2¼ dozen for $2.50. For Sale at Lautsbaugh Pharmacy.—Adv.

Not Heaven, Maybe, But Really Pure

SARITA, Tex. — (U.P.) — Clerk Nettie P. Woods of the 28th district court returned to her knitting today, as the court kept intact its four-year record of not hearing a case.

The court met and ended shortly after District Judge Paul A. Martineau named a new list of grand jurors to replace those named last year—but not summoned.

The district clerk put aside her knitting long enough for the court session. She explained:

"We haven't had a court case here in Kenedy county for four years. We didn't have any divorces last year, and don't expect any this year.

"This county never has had a juvenile delinquency case. In fact, nothing much has happened in the 33 years I've been here."

She added:

"I guess snakes give us more trouble than anything. You have to be careful about them wherever you go."

Births, deaths and marriages are the only newsworthy events in the sparsely-settled county, she said. There is no old age assistance, no formal charity, and during the depression there was no WPA project.

HOUSE BANK'S LOSSES HIGH

WASHINGTON —(INS)—Republican leaders have indicated that congress probably will have to make good at least part of the $121,981 shortage in the house "bank."

The shortage was disclosed officially in an audit made by Comptroller Gen. Lindsay Warren of the accounts and records of Kenneth Romney, house sergeant-at-arms from 1931 to Jan. 2, 1947. It apparently was dated from 1928 to 1938.

Warren's report was submitted to Speaker Martin who in turn forwarded it to Attorney General Clark with a request that he attempt to recover as much of the missing funds as possible and take such other action as he deemed advisable.

The bank, officially termed a "receiving office" of the house sergeant-at-arms, will reopen today after being closed for 17 days. However, members will be permitted to withdraw only 75 per cent of their funds, a precaution apparently taken to prevent a run on the bank.

It was recalled that in 1890, when a similar shortage was found, congress appropriated $75,000. Republican leaders said no definite decision has yet been reached on how to make up the loss, but expressed belief it would not be fair to assess it against the members.

Warren's report stated that at one time the shortage apparently totaled $143,863 and presumably $21,882 was repaid after June 27, 1945.

The shortage of $121,981 did not include an additional $3,582 in overdrafts, which Martin said would be made good by members who received advances on their salaries.

The auditors' report ascribed the existing shortage to five people, as follows: Romney, $22,965; J. H. Smithwick, of Moutrie, Ga., member of congress from Florida from 1919 to 1927, $64,573; Frank J. Mahoney, former bookkeeper in the sergeant-at-arms' office, $25,066; H. A. McKenzie, another former employe, $8,000; and W. C. Pickens, also listed as Champ Pickens, described as a "promoter," $1,376.

The earliest recorded mention of Indian summer is 1794.

Army Again Offers Cadet Pilot Training

Aviation cadet pilot training has been resumed by the Army Air Forces, according to a directive received from Washington headquarters, M/Sgt. Daniel DeSalvo, Mansfield army recruiting station commander, said today.

Young men between 18 and 26½ years may undergo pilot training for air corps lieutenants.

The cadet must be unmarried, a citizen, and a graduate of a four-year high school. The applicant must enlist in the regular army air forces and then apply for cadet training.

Details may be obtained at the Mansfield army recruiting station.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

There were two thousand well-fed and well-lubricated guests in the banquet hall, making a formidable racket when the worried chairman sought out Cass Daley, the singer.

"I hope you can sing loud enough to make this gang hear you," he said.

"Sing loud enough," laughed Miss Daley. "Son, I'm the only songbird who ever got an answer from Chloe."

"Oh dear," sighed the movie starlet at Romanoff's. "If only I weren't on a diet! Is banana shortcake really fattening?" The suave Prince Michael smiled and assured her. "Only if you eat it."

A hospital in Hollywood notifies the entire staff when an interesting post-mortem is about to be performed. The event is subtly advertised over the loud-speaker system by a dulcet-voiced nurse who murmurs "Calling Dr. Post! Calling Dr. Mortimer Post!"

Marshall Planning Resurvey of U. S. Attitude Toward Russia

NEW SECRETARY PREPARING FOR BIG 4 MEETING

Observers Say Kremlin Faces More Stern Policy Now.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Secretary of State George C. Marshall was reported today planning a complete resurvey of the United States attitude toward Russia before he goes to the "Big Four" foreign ministers meeting in Moscow in March.

Observers in Washington believed that Marshall would show a far stiffer attitude toward the Kremlin than his predecessor James F. Byrnes.

Persons familiar with the situation, however, felt that Marshall would be obliged to attend the Moscow meeting. They noted that the conference was proposed by Byrnes in New York and that, therefore, the United States was obligated to attend.

It was noted, if Russia adopts the same delaying tactics there that were used to hold up the peace treaties for the satellite states, Marshall might propose some new system of drafting the peace treaties.

The satellite treaties, covering Italy, Finland, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary, were signed by Byrnes only this week following 18 months of debate.

Treaties Coming Up.

At Moscow the foreign ministers are to take up the treaties for Germany and Austria. On this question Marshall was expected to be tough inasmuch as the Potsdam agreement provided that Germany be treated as an economic whole. Thus far both Russia and France have refused to integrate the country's economy at great cost both to the United States and the United Kingdom.

If Russia fails to go along, Marshall was expected to propose that a general peace conference be held among those states which actively participated in the war against the European Axis.

Failing in that, he might suggest that the peace treaties be drafted under the auspices of the United Nations, a course once proposed by Byrnes.

A hint of U. S. irritation at delays in formulating the peace treaties was given recently by Ambassador Robert P. Murphy, Marshall's deputy in preparing a preliminary draft for Germany.

Murphy proposed that the idea of a treaty for Germany be abandoned and that the country be governed by a statute until restored to its postwar role. It was believed that Murphy had official backing for this suggestion.

U. S. APPEALS SUGAR DECISION

WASHINGTON—(INS)— Government attorneys prepared today to appeal a court decision which may shatter the entire sugar rationing program.

The decision, as stated in a memorandum issued by U. S. District Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington, rules invalid the "historic use" system by which the government allots sugar to industrial users.

The system bases sugar allocations on the amount used by the applicant during a specified base period.

Officials of the office of temporary controls sugar branch fear that there may be no other satisfactory method of allocating industrial sugar. They admit that the collapse of the industrial rationing program almost inevitably would drag the household rationing set up with it.

Both housewives and commercial sugar users were warned, however, that the rationing program as it stands is still in effect and will remain so until further notice.

LEO AND LARAINE PUT JUDGE IN HUFF

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Movie actress Laraine Day must satisfactorily explain her "flouting" of the California courts, or face revocation of her two-day-old divorce, a stern-mannered judge decided today.

Superior Judge George Dockweiler, dissatisfied with the actress's preliminary explanation of second divorce, Mexican variety, and immediate remarriage, this time to Leo Durocher, said she must present a more valid excuse or he would revoke her divorce from Ray Hendricks, an airport manager.

Miss Day excused her actions by saying that she just wanted to be happy.

SHANGHAI —(AP)— The army Graves registration service confirmed reports today that one of its planes, missing since Saturday, had landed north of Canton and all 13 men aboard were safe.

2 FLEE AS TRAIN STRIKES TRUCK

Two unidentified men leaped to safety and escaped on foot when a truck in which they were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania freight train last night at a private crossing near Union station.

Police have not identified the men, and ownership of the 1936 panel truck is not clear. Police reported the truck was owned by Howard Pogue, 71 East Fourth street, but registration papers found near the wreckage were issued to the City Auto Wrecking company, of Ashland.

The truck, which was heavily damaged, was towed to Pogue's garage on Waring avenue. The accident occurred at 7:30 p. m. near the Railway Express company platform north of the station.

President John Adams used to drink a quart tankard of hard cider before breakfast.

Industries Turning To Smaller Cities

MANSFIELD'S policy of encouraging diversification of its industries, instead of building up around a single large industry, is now being patterned after by many other cities, some of which have suffered severely from slumps that resulted from a let-down of activity in some particular industry, or a strike which temporarily suspended practically all industrial employment.

More cities are realizing that a number of small industries, each hiring a few hundred men and women—or even less than a hundred—are more likely to contribute to healthy economic life in the community than placing sole dependence on one or two big industries subject to national rather than local control of labor relations.

Trend toward decentralization of large industries, which has been noticeable in recent years, is being followed by moves on the part of some medium-sized and small companies to get away from great industrial centers.

An article by L. C. Morrow, editor of Factory Management and Maintenance, touches on this subject. He says: "Back of these moves undoubtedly is the conviction expressed by the president of a nationally-known manufacturing plant of medium size, that people in the smaller centers are closer to the realities and understand that they cannot have what they do not produce."

Mr. Morrow concludes his article by saying: "The nation will be fortunate if the movement away from the big centers continues. It is needful in our economy that everyone who works shall fully understand that a high standard of living depends upon what is produced; that low output per man-hour of work is inimical to the creation of plenty; and that higher and higher costs end up in the sharing of poverty rather than plenty."

Discussion groups seeking better understanding of troublesome problems associated with labor-management relations will find further development of this subject illuminating—and possibly helpful.

Price Jockeying In Automotive Field

WHAT GOES ON! Almost immediately after one auto manufacturer announces a cut in the price of cars another announces increases in all except the lowest priced line.

Maybe that makes sense—in a hazy sort of way—but it can scarcely fail to confuse prospective purchasers of cars in the broad middle price range, many of whom have already been priced out of the market.

Relatively little interest is being shown in price boosts on the so-called "luxury" type of cars, it being quite generally assumed that prospects for a $5,000 car would undergo no particular hardship as a result of being required to pay $7,500—or even $10,000—for it.

But what about the mass market in the $1,000 to $2,000 price range—made up of people who are required to scrimp and save in order to finance the purchase of a family car? Are they to be deprived of the highly-touted means of "individual transportation" or is their income to be jumped proportionately?

It's an interesting subject for cogitation by those who are being penalized by the upward trend in wages and prices.

Who Hasn't Paid For Christmas Seals?

AN AMAZING revelation is that 11,418 Richland countians have thus far neglected, or intentionally failed, to pay for the Christmas seals mailed to them early in December—as a part of the anti-tuberculosis battle being fought in this community and all over the nation. With many this is probably an oversight, but with others it may be a lack of understanding of the purpose of this fund. Of course no one is compelled to pay, but many thousands of people do it gladly—as shown by the fact that the 9,193 persons who did pay have contributed $11,079 of the $12,500 goal.

Time for making contributions has been extended to Feb. 15. And those who have been neglectful now have an opportunity of doing double service if they will send in their contribution before the new deadline. By making its full quota of $12,500 the Richland County Tuberculosis association will receive a bonus of $1,000. It has never failed to get the bonus in previous years.

Five per cent of the funds go to national headquarters; 15 per cent to state headquarters. Of this latter amount $1,000 is rebated to each county making its quota.

More Labor-Savers For Farmers

NOT ALL the fancy postwar gadgets, so glibly talked about a few years ago, have materialized. And it appears that many of them are still a long time from realization because they looked more interesting on paper than the finished products would look to the men who had to market them.

However, among the very practical items that have begun to make their appearance are new types of farm machinery. Others are on the way. One manufacturer has bought a 45 million-dollar war plant to construct a "cub" tractor for use on small farms. Another plans to build power weeders, thinners, loaders and sub-surface tillers. Many of the new items will be equipped with hydraulic lifts.

Power, which has long lightened the field tasks on ranches and big farms, is coming rapidly to the little farm as well.

Four companies plan to have new self-propelled combines on the market this year and another will have a large self-propelled corn picker.

While these machines may not have the spectacular appeal of some of the dreamed-up gadgets talked about during the war, they have far greater importance in the continuing welfare of the nation.

As the Kansas City Star views it: "Snow is a commodity which looks much better in lambic pentameter than on the end of a shovel."

It now develops that the headline, "Reds Seek More Bases," has no connection with the Cincinnati baseball club.

Yes, you're still being asked to save kitchen fats.

ASKING FOR TROUBLE

RFC Stages Quick Maneuver To Sabotage Small Business Loans

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Last week the Reconstruction Finance Corporation issued an inconspicuous routine announcement stating that its BPA program would expire Jan. 22. To most people this meant nothing. To thousands of little businessmen throughout the country, however, it meant the difference between prosperity and the opposite.

To people inside the RFC, furthermore, it represented one of the cleverest rush-jobs of backstage maneuvering in recent RFC history.

Two Republican RFCommissioners, taking advantage of two Democratic absences, abrogated the RFC plan to guarantee 75 per cent of bank loans to small business up to $100,000. In the last gressional committees on Small Business had not yet been reportant loans the RFC has made.

Here is the inside story of what happened.

Charles Henderson, RFC chairman and generally considered a friend of small business, was absent in California. George Allen, another Democrat, and a staunch champion of small business, resigned effective Jan. 16. John Godloe, nominated to take his place as a Democratic commissioner, had not been confirmed by the senate.

This left the RFC on Jan. 17—the day after Allen resigned—in control of three men—two Republicans and one Democrat.

On that date also the two congressional committees on mall Business had not yet been reorganized. Both have staunchly championed RFC loans to small business, but since the new congress began, the two committees have been in the throes of reorganization.

Big Banker Viewpoint.

On Jan. 17, therefore, one day after Allen resigned, and before the Small Business committees on Capitol Hill could get going, commissioner Henry T. Bodman moved to drop the BPA program, in other words, the "Blanket Participation Agreement" whereby the RFC automatically underwrote 75 per cent of loans which a bank extends to a small business.

Commissioner Bodman's background is the National Bank of Detroit, one of the most powerful financial institutions of the automobile capital. Behind it are the Fisher Brothers, of Fisher Body fame, and General Motors. They are also linked with the Bankers Trust and the Guarantee Trust in New York. This group represents big business, and generally speaking does not favor loans to small business.

So with two Democratic commissioners absent, Detroit banking friend Bodman moved to end the BPA program. Democratic commissioner Henry Mulligan opposed. GOP commissioner Harvey Gunderson went along with Bodman—though without enthusiasm. The Republicans incidentally had the unofficial blessing of Democratic Secretary of the Treasury Snyder.

And that was how the RFC maneuvered to take one of the most significant steps of the past two years. For, since the BPA program was put into effect in March, 1945, the RFC had lent small business a total of $464,650,102—a flow of capital which could not help but have a tremendous impact on the country.

Note—Though Republican RFC commissioners voted against small business, GOP leaders on Capitol Hill generally hold the opposite. Republican National Chairman Carroll Reece has been strong for small business.

Financial Squeeze Play.

Here is how the RFC program for aiding small business operated. If, for instance, a small operator of a petroleum derivatives plant in Maryland went to his local bank and asked for a $100,000 loan, the bank probably would say: "Your legal limit is $25,000, but we'll ask our affiliated banks if they'll participate with us and make it $100,000."

The small-town bank would then query larger banks in Baltimore, Richmond and Washington to get takers for the remaining $75,000. And the larger banks, seeing that the petroleum was competing with Shell, Standard, Texaco, Sunoco and other big companies, probably would reply: "Your competition is too strong."

Actually, the real reason for turning down the loan might be the bigger banks' ties with larger petroleum companies. When and if the bigger banks turned down the loan, however, the small bank could go to the RFC and be certain of underwriting the remaining 75 per cent.

Following last week's RFC vote, however, this is no longer possible.

Capital Chaff.

At his latest cabinet meeting President Truman gave instructions on how to get along with the new Republican congress. He told his cabinet members not to fight the new congress, but to insist upon justice. Be courteous, careful, and co-operative, he advised, but stand up for your rights. Of late, incidentally, the president has seemed much more confident . . . President Truman may have to put a "help wanted" sign outside the White House. He's offering a job paying $30,000 a year and no income tax (which is more than his own net income), but the job is going begging. The vacancy is head of the World Bank—recently occupied by Eugene Meyer. So far, Truman has had no takers. Reason is—it's almost as difficult as running the United Nations . . . Secretary of the Navy Forrestal is still unhappy over the army-navy merger. Even though there would be a new secretary for national defense, he wants the secretary of navy to continue sitting in the cabinet with full cabinet rank . . . Another of President Truman's administrative assistants, Raymond R. Zimmerman, will soon resign . . . No love is lost these days between those two old Minnesota friends, Senator Ball and ex-Governor Harold Stassen. Stassen doesn't like Ball's anti-labor bills.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Report showed ninety babies were born in Mansfield registration area in December—51 boys and 39 girls.

Thirteen Mansfielders were registered at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Hawkins, 12 Pearl street; son to Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lewis, 42 West Second street.

John W. Ferguson, 72, died at his home, 165 Newman street.

New book by Rev. A. E. Bell, Toledo resident and native of Mansfield, was published, "Gist of the Bible, Book by Book."

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Linsey, West Third street, left for Phoenix, Ariz., to spend remainder of winter.

I WAS a little flabbergasted the other day to hear Frances Perkins saying government should keep out of worker-employer disputes and declaring she stood for less federal interference. Gosh, Frances, you set a new American record for slow motion over a given distance in coming out with words like those.

I would almost expect Bob Wagner to express similar thoughts any time now.

According to the papers, Frances, you said you did not feel free to express this idea during your 12 years as secretary of labor. I knew you were pretty silent there in Washington but this is the first time I ever suspected you were interned.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

One Senator Believes "Silence Is Golden."

WASHINGTON—The most popular conception of a congressman nowadays seems to be a windy oratorically-inclined individual who will fly into a flurry of forensics at the drop of a redwood branch or magnolia blossom.

Far too often, it must be conceded, there is a certain, unmistakeable similarity between this fictional character and the real thing.

However, there are exceptions. The other day, an aging, baldheaded senator sighed sadly, arose to the senate floor and made himself a speech. Then he sat down quickly and seemed to be seeking to sink himself silently into the shadows of the senators sitting around him.

What he said caught the attention of newsmen. Next day there were headlines about it. And downtown, where reporters gathered for a bull session, a comparatively new capital correspondent queried:

"Who's this guy Hayden from Arizona? One of the new ones?"

Hardly. Carl Hayden has been in congress since 1911. He was in the house until 1926 and has been a senator since. But that incident best illustrated why he's known around town as "Silent Carl."

Although one of the most tireless of all Capitol Hill behind-the-scene workers, the 69-year-old Arizonian rarely has anything to say publicly—and he dodges newspapermen with all the canniness of a bankrupt man avoiding bill collectors.

For instance, he is one of the few solons who subscribe to no clipping service, and perhaps the only official on Capitol Hill whose staff has standing orders to dump all news references to him in the wastebasket.

Right after he made his speech the other day, reporters swore he practically scuttled down the corridors and scurried behind the marble columns to avoid them—although when trapped, he was not unpleasant. It's just that through the years, the shy Arizonian has concluded that anonymity is the most efficient method of getting the job done.

Ironically, it was two scarcely silent citizens who taught him to hold his tongue long ago—William Jennings Bryan and Frederick C. Talbott, a couple of the most colorful characters ever to hit Capitol Hill.

Said Bryan to Hayden as he left for his first term, some 36 years ago:

"Now don't you go down to Washington and make any Fourth of July speeches."

But the freshman representative got interested in a bill right after he hit town, hopped up and made himself a ringing speech. Unfortunately, in his intensity, some of his facts got confused. Said Talbott later as the youngster was sadly surveying the Congressional Record:

"Well, son, you had to say it, didn't you? But remember, that speech will always be there in the Record. Some day you might want to change it, but you can't."

Hayden has remembered.

His passion for anonymity even stretches to the Congressional Directory where his seven-line biography looks like a classified ad, compared to the hundreds and hundreds of words written by other solons.

But it doesn't include idleness on any problem concerning Arizona or the West. And congressmen who want to know anything about irrigation, reclamation, highways or silver legislation inevitably turn to "Silent Carl" for suggestions. It was he who finally untangled the silver squabble which had kept congress hamstrung for weeks.

Battle to Remove Anti-Trust Controls.

WASHINGTON—Both Democrats and Republicans have indulged in pious mouthings, in party platforms and from the stump, about preserving the free, competitive enterprise system.

With equal piety, they have pledged to protect the system by curbing monopoly and monopolistic practices.

Big business, too, has been saying some sweet things lately about the necessity of curbing monopoly, though in a sort of second-fiddle way to more noisy complaints about an alleged monopoly of labor.

The big smoke in the new congress is over doing something about labor.

Now, behind this smokescreen, a nice little plot is being hatched to build up and perpetuate a most dangerous monopoly that concerns everyone of us. It affects the prices we pay for most everything, jobs, and small business, as monopoly always does. It gets down to the fundamentals of our daily living, however much it may be disguised in smooth, technical arguments.

The plot is embodied in the so-called Bulwinkle Bill that would exempt railroads, as well as allied transportation agencies, motor carriers, water carriers, and pipelines, from the anti-trust laws.

This measure was rushed through the house in the last Democratic congress after only 40 minutes of debate, but was sidetracked in the senate, thanks to the alertness of a group of Democrats and progressive Republicans. Its sponsor was Rep. Bulwinkle (D., N. C.).

The plot now is to rush this bill first through the senate and again through the house, which is necessary in a new congress.

The senate interstate commerce committee has been called in session with the plan to hold public hearings for a day or two on this far-reaching bill, sponsored in the senate by Senator Reed (R., Kan.).

A vigorous protest against such rush proceedings was made by Senator Tobey (R., Vt.). Senators Tobey and Johnson (D., S. C.), voted against the bill in committee last session.

On the issue, itself, Senator Tobey said congress had no right to take a huge segment of our economy from under the anti-trust laws.

He recognizes, as do others, that this is an entering wedge to exempt other industries from anti-trust laws and thus further the purposes of monopoly. The rush is on to enact this bill in order to short-circuit the Supreme Court, which has before it an anti-trust case brought by ex-Gox. Ellis Arnall of Georgia charging discrimination in rates against the South. The aim also is to nullify a suit brought by the government against western roads charging conspiracy to fix rates.

The same sort of short-circuit trick was tried by the insurance industry not long ago with a bill to exempt insurance from anti-trust laws. A case then pending before the supreme court involved that issue.

That bill was delayed by the senate, thanks to Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), until after the decision by the Supreme Court which held insurance subject to federal anti-trust laws. Subsequently a compromise measure was passed by congress exempting insurance companies from federal anti-trust laws until next year.

Arguments in the Georgia railroad case begin March 15 before a master delegated by the court to take testimony, Lloyd Garrison. The western case is fixed for trial April 23.

The congressional Republican leadership could hardly get off to a worse start than to pass such special interest legislation. It would, as well, give President Truman a ready-made issue.

It is known that he will veto it, and his veto message will give him an opportunity to make some pointed remarks about passing such legislation while refusing to do anything about a number of social welfare measures long pending.

Don't Expect Miracles of Marshall.

WASHINGTON — Rarely has any incoming officer of the government ever been greeted with such a welcome as that accorded Gen. George C. Marshall. Assuming the duties of secretary of state, he has been hailed by every section of the press—left, right and middle—for his character and achievements.

That this is well deserved no one can deny. George Marshall proved himself over and over again in the ordeal of the war.

But at the same time, it is well to recognize that this overwhelming vote of confidence puts the new secretary of state under something of a handicap.

We Americans cherish the Cinderella legend. Against the background of this chorus of praise, Secretary of State Marshall will be expected to perform miracles.

The new secretary is just now facing up to the hard facts of his job. In our enthusiasm over the outstanding qualifications of the man, we should not overlook the difficulties of his position.

Marshall is the fourth secretary of state in little more than two years. That in itself is a sobering fact. Cordell Hull's resignation was dated Nov. 27, 1944. He was followed by Edward R. Stettinius, jr., who resigned to be replaced by James F. Byrnes. Byrnes took over on July 3, 1945.

That means that the conduct of our foreign policy has been interrupted three times in the past two years while a new secretary took up the assignment laid down by his predecessor. That is what Marshall is doing today.

Even though he took part in the conferences of the Big Four during the war, he is very new to the job. Those who presumably will work with him most closely—the state department's experts in various fields—do not know his views except in general on the China problem. They must learn what is in his mind, and he must get from them the background so essential to continuity of policy.

That cannot be done overnight. It takes patience and perseverance. And this breaking-in process comes on the eve of what promises to be the most important post-war conference.

The Big Four foreign ministers are scheduled to meet in Moscow on March 15, to start fixing the peace for Germany and Austria. This involves a decision difficult and troublesome in itself.

Persuasive arguments have been made for Marshall to stay on the job in the state department and send a deputy to Moscow. Staying here, he could direct the reorganization of the department and fix American policy. Byrnes had no chance to do those jobs, since he was preoccupied with day-to-day dealing in London, Moscow, Paris and New York.

But if Marshall does not go to Moscow for at least the beginning of the coming conference, his action would be interpreted as a shift in U. S. policy.

It would start a wave of speculation in every foreign office in the world.

Moreover, the other three foreign ministers are now completing their plans to attend the Moscow meeting. Our secretary of state could hardly at this point change the plan agreed to by his predecessor.

Let's give Gen. Marshall a chance. It will take years of patient endeavor to work out the kind of peace that has any chance of lasting. The manifold problems of building in the world cannot be resolved by magic.

In accepting this assignment, Gen. Marshall has shown once again his patriotic devotion to what he considers his duty. But he cannot work miracles.

Farmer's Diary: "Everybody Loses."

"OUR neighbors are selling out and moving back to town," said an old farm woman to me with a dubious shake of the head that promised more to follow.

"Is that so? Why? Didn't they like it here?"

"Maybe they'd better have stayed in town right along," said she. "They don't appear to fit very well any place and there's nothin' to be done about it! Seems a pity, though, too. But a body can't tell 'em nothin'.

"They come here before the war—things looked good at first. They had a nice car, and the children were neat and friendly. Two high school boys and a girl in the seventh or eighth grade, they've got. But their dad got a job in a shop that paid big war wages, and pretty soon their mother went to workin', too.

"I've always said she made her mistake right there. Oh, she got a fur coat, and they bought a new car, but those boys and that pretty girl—tsk, tsk! Them two boys could have done right smart o' farm work and enjoyed it—and prices were high and are yet, for livestock and eggs and such. But instead of workin' at home they'd nobody to direct them what to do, and they got to loafin' in poolrooms after school, and their sister played around on the street.

"Then I hear they ain't paid for their farm—that's why they're going to skin out now. Both of 'em worked five years now, an' got big wages. Come easy, go easy! They lived extravagant, right out o' the grocery store—I saw her market basket once when they dragged it home on Saturday night. There was fancy cookies, and olives and grapes and pickles and cheese and figs and candy bars—whooee!

"We wuz talkin' the other night, here at home—everybody's the losers. 'That farm where they've lived and kept real farmers off was a loss during wartime, and is yet. Those children have lost all interest in farmwork, and in lots of other good things that they might have learned . . . the girl is going to be wilder than the boys are, mark my word!

"This community hasn't gained a thing by having them here. The place is running down, and him and her spend their money somewheres else. And with both of 'em away all day, they haven't time to be neighborly. Both him and her mean well—'tain't that they're bad folks. They don't steal—they keep busy—but they don't pull together as a family! Oh shucks! It pulls me all apart just thinkin' about it. And I bring those kids in after school, whenever I can, for cookies or doughnuts . . . their mother don't come for two hours. Then she opens a few tin cans . . .

Why, even the city people are the losers, too! For somebody nearer might have had those jobs, if she'd stayed here and done her first duty! I guess I talk too much . . ."

Ohio Legislature Faces Stormy Session on Union Control Bill

MEASURE CUTS LABOR POWERS TO MINIMUM

Proposal Asks Annual Report on Income, Expenses.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— A house bill proposing ironbound control of labor unions headed for stormy committee hearings today.

Rep. William R. Van Aken, R., Cuyahoga, was author of the bill which would limit number of pickets, require an annual financial report by unions, and regulate the calling of strikes and negotiation of closed shop contracts.

Van Aken's bill would outlaw "secondary boycotts" and make officers and agents of unincorporated unions liable for actions of the unions. The unions themselves would be subject to legal action and law suits.

No strike could be called in a business of any kind except on a majority vote of all employes, whether union members or not, under the bill. Negotiation of a closed shop contract would require approval of four-fifths of all workers affected.

The bill proposed that union heads file a financial report every year disclosing the amount of dues, assessments and initiation fees collected, expenses—including officers salaries—and the total number of members of the union.

Failure to report would be a misdemeanor after Feb. 1, 1948, with each day a separate offense.

A union could not make excess levies or require participation of members in mutual benefit or insurance plans, the bill provided.

Picketing Limited.

Peaceful picketing would be permissable, with not more than two pickets at each entrance, but it would be unlawful for a picket to interfere with the right of other persons to work and all union members would be liable in civil action for false and defamatory statements.

A union would be prohibited under the act from compelling the employment or firing of a worker and could not refuse membership to any worker or eject a member from a union for other than "just cause" as determined in the common pleas court.

If the bill passes the legislature in its present form, no alien or person convicted of a felony, whose citizenship rights have not been restored, could serve as a union officer, agent, organizer or member of a negotiating committee.

Both the annual report of the labor union and a report of the outcome of each strike vote would be filed with the director of the state industrial relations department. The bill provided that failure to file a report would constitute a misdemeanor.

It would outlaw the collection of money, or other things of value, by a labor union agent as a condition for the privilege to work from any person not a member of the union.

Unions would be prohibited from engaging in political action under the bill. A $1,000 fine and a year imprisonment was provided for any union agent who solicits or receives any money for the purpose of making a contribution to a political party or a person running for public office.

Personnel from the Mansfield army recruiting station will show the film.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, January 24.

THE development of a set of circumstances which may impede the smooth running of elaborate plans and programs of far-reaching importance already on fair way of accomplishment, is read from this day's astral configurations. This menace is from a prodigal, extravagant and over-exuberant tendency to plunge, gamble, or to waste the energies, substance and assets in a wild and spectacular explosion, in which there are scant dividends or security. Shrewd and quiet acumen may get results.

Those whose birthday it is may find their own well-organized and studied plans and actics, applied to a state of current events having promise of long-term and lasting security, may be put in jeopardy by a rash, intemperate, over-optimistic and extravagant urge, in which the spirit of gambling, plunging and prodigality may set off a course of loss of resources, funds, position, prestige and peace of mind, affecting the personal as well as business life. Logic, restraint and acumen gain lasting returns.

A child born on this day has good prospects of a happy, fruitful and happy career, if it be trained to control an inclination to prodigality, extravagance and over-indulgence, in funds, energies and behavior.

When measuring yourself for a pattern hold tape measure around bust and waist easily, do not pull too tight. In taking hip measurements, however, tape may be drawn fairly tight.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. No cooking needed. It's no trouble.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, and makes breathing easy. If not pleased, your money will be refunded.

A DOUBLE SURPRISE

Peter Rabbit sat beneath a thick bush in a corner of Farmer Brown's yard looking up at a deserted nest. Tommy Tit the Chickadee had just told him whose nest it was. He had said that it was one of Kitty the Catbird's.

"What do you mean by saying it is one of Kitty's nests? Are you telling me that those Catbirds had more than one nest last summer?" demanded Peter.

"If you didn't know it already I suppose I am," replied Tommy Tit, clinging upside down to a twig while he looked over the underside for insect eggs that might be there.

"How many?" asked Peter.

"How many what?" asked Tommy Tit. He was very busy looking over the twigs of that bush, looking for eggs so tiny that only such bright little eyes as his would see them.

"Nests, of course. How many nests did those Catbirds have last summer?" said Peter. He spoke a bit crossly.

"Oh, those! Two was all I knew of. They might have had another, but I don't think they did," said Tommy Tit.

"What did they want of two nests?" demanded Peter.

"They raised two families," replied Tommy Tit.

"Not at the same time!" cried Peter.

"Of course not. Whoever heard of anybody raising two families at the same time?" replied Tommy Tit.

"Then why didn't they use the same nest for the second family?" Peter persisted.

"How should I know? Dee dee, how should I know? It was none of my business. Peter Rabbit!" retorted Tommy Tit. He was getting tired of what seemed to him foolish questions.

"How do you know they had two nests? If they did where is the other one? I guess if they had two I would have found one of them when they made it," said Peter.

Tommy Tit chuckled. "You sat right under this one more than once and didn't see it until today, and you probably have sat right under the other one for I have seen you in the neighborhood of it many times," said he, and chuckled again. It was a pleasant throaty little chuckle.

Peter remembered how he had looked and looked for the nest of the Catbirds in late spring and early summer and how Kitty the Catbird had teased him by fussing about in different places as if near his nest, then suddenly disappearing. Now to learn that he had had two nests and kept both secret was a surprise indeed. And now he got a double surprise when he demanded where that second nest was.

"Dee, dee, dee, dee," cried Tommy Tit. "Dee dee, dee! You ought to know. You certainly ought to know!" He chuckled, and his tiny black eyes snapped with mischief.

"I don't or I wouldn't have asked you," replied Peter.

"It is over in the dear old Briar-patch," cried Tommy Tit, and chuckled more than ever.

"No such thing!" retorted Peter indignantly. "If they had had a nest there I would have known it. Those Catbirds just visited over there. We are old friends.

"Perhaps you didn't stay at home enough to know all that was going on there," said Tommy Tit slyly. When you go back there look in that thick bramble-tangle at one end of the Old Briar-patch."

"I'm going right now," declared Peter, and away he went lipperty, lipperty, lip.

"I don't believe it," he kept saying as he ran, but when he crept under that thick tangle of brambles and looked up there, sure enough, was a nest. The first one had been a surprise, but this one was a greater surprise. He wasn't quite sure he believed his own eyes.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Willie Goes to School at 23

Everybody's joshing Willie Wells about going back to school. They remember when Willie would hide out in the woodshed—scared to bring his report card home to Pa.

But under the G.I. Bill of Rights, Willie (who has a wife and baby) is getting a free education at the Agricultural College. And Uncle Sam is giving him a fine report: "Deportment, excellent; Progress, above average."

That goes for all those undergraduate veterans. Like Willie, they appreciate an education more than ever now. They're industrious and well-behaved—their favorite beverage is milk, or a temperate glass of beer. For them the "three R's" seem to mean: Responsibility, Resourcefulness, Restraint.

From where I sit, cynical folks who thought veterans wouldn't want to return to school—wouldn't stick to steady habits of work and moderation—have their answer in "undergraduates" like Willie.

HOUSE REMOVAL CASE CONTINUED

While the Richland county grand jury has been in session this week in the common pleas court room, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch has been hearing equity cases in the court of appeals room.

Hearing of an action seeking removal of a house erected 12.64 feet over a property line on Lawnsdale avenue was continued for 30 days Tuesday at the request of the plaintiff's counsel. The plaintiff, C. S. Butler, had filed the action against Michael Mayer.

A decision of $75 and costs was awarded the plaintiff yesterday in the case of Sherman Gaddis vs Carl Statts. The case was brought on by the defendant on the decision of the Justice of Peace in Worthington township for back rent claimed due on the plaintiff's farm in Jefferson township.

Two other cases also heard yesterday were continued until an indefinite date.

One, Alexander Colangelo, vs Adeline Colangelo, et al, sought partition of property on East Sixth street, while the other, Anna M. Carpenter vs Clifford G. Young, et al, sought to enjoin the defendant from breaking ground to sow wheat on the plaintiff's farm in Butler township.

Barclay On Bridge

IN RUBBER bridge, if you bid and make a No Trump grand slam vulnerable, you get 220 for tricks, 1500 for slam bonus and 700 for game bonus—a total of 2,400. If you stop at small slam and make the extra trick, your small slam premium is 750 instead of 1500, and therefore your total is 1670. But remember this—going the rest of the way to grand slam may risk losing 1640 in return for possible extra gain of 750. Therefore, it is unsound to do it unless you think the odds are 1640 againsst 750 that you will make the grand slam, or roughly more than 2 to 1 in favor of success.

From the responses to his Blackwood 4-No Trumps, South knew that North had the missing two aces and one of the two red kings. He counted on North as having five spades, since he went on with a rebid of them after South had given only second-round support indicating probably only three cards of the suit.

Then South began counting up the tricks. Almost certainly five in spades, which should break 3-2 in the defenders' hands. Three in clubs brought the total to eight, one for the heart A made nine, North's red king would make ten, the diamond A made 11 and—if North had nothing extra, there was at least the chance that the diamond finesse would work or North had the heart Q and club J, or perhaps more than five spades.

As it developed, the grand slam could not be made, after the heart lead, unless the diamond finesse would work. But it did, so the contract was negotiated.

That was a pretty hazardous bid for rubber bridge. In match-point duplicate, it would have been a bit sounder, because South would be risking only the number of match points available in each deal, not the extra value the deal had in rubbers.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Labor Ills Uncured

NEW YORK — Although both defendants were acquitted, the trials of Joe Fay and Ben Pross, professional union racketeers, in the United States district court, in Newark, have provided a dramatic answer to those who insist that the so-called labor movement should be allowed to cure its own ills. These two gangsters have been notorious for years and their depredations have been publicized in some detail before.

In their trials, however, Fay, on a charge of dodging income tax on his graft, and Pross, on a charge of using his power of the liquor industry to provide whiskey for the black market, the treasury plainly showed that they used their union authority to shake down industry in the name of the workers and that the workers in their unions were mere tools. Fay said he used part of the graft to pay members of his union to intimidate and beat up members of another union and to undercut the wage scale of the others. He spent thousands of dollars for tickets to prizefights and for wild parties for lesser union bosses of his own jurisdiction and this was called "labor relations."

An employer who had hired professional sluggers, as Fay said he did, to smash a picket line and beat down the wage-scale, would have been indictable on a number of counts. But let the employer hire a boss of a group of unions, holding credentials from the American Federation of Labor and high office in one of its component internationals, to do the same thing and he is in the clear. The union racketeer himself, in this case Joe Fay, is performing the honorable duties of his position.

* * *

THE RANK and file workers of Fay's union would have nothing to say about all this. Obviously only a foolhardy rebel and martyr would challenge the actions of a man who frankly admits in court that he rallied sluggers and paid them to beat up other union men so that the employers could save money on a lower wage scale.

Pross' principal union is Local 1 of the Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers' union. As a matter of policy and to his own advantage, he has raised some wages and improved working conditions in an industry that is still badly infested with old-time bootleggers. He also has claimed dictatorial authority in as many as 17 other local unions in the New York area.

In his black market case, which typified the shakedown powers of this inveterate racketeer, it was shown that Pross compelled Schenley, the distillery corporation, to allocate 10,500 cases of whiskey to distributors whom he selected, at a time when whiskey was being rationed. This was his price to Schenley of peaceful labor relations. They complied and all but a trifling amount of liquor was traced by the treasury to the black market in southern states, where American soldiers in their training camps, in 1943, paid as much as $25 a bottle for whiskey. By the case, the markup, in excess of OPA prices, ranged between $4 and $17.

In recent columns concerning the non-sectarian Anti-Nazi league, it was reported that testimony had been given to a congressional committee that Mario Buzzi, an investigator for the league, at one time suffered from "a rather grave mental condition." That was an unintentional error. Actually, the statement was that Mr. Buzzi was suffering from "a rather grave medical condition." I want to make this correction and to correct any implications that followed this incorrect transcription of the testimony.

Austin Seeks Delay

UNITED STATES U. N. Delegate Warren Austin's first action —which has been to ask that the whole discussion of disarmament, atomic and general, be postponed three weeks—will, we may hope, set a precedent. Austin asked for postponement in order that Gen. Marshall may have time and the opportunity to take charge.

Thus, he was saying (1) that he regards himself as an agent of American policy and not as the master of an independent domain, conducting his own personal campaign for the salvation of the world; (2) that to be faithful to our commitments does not mean that we must be slavish or sentimental or stubbornly dogmatic about ways and means, about procedure and methods; (3) that the new secretary of state should be enabled to review the whole American position, now that the preliminary negotiations are over and the great settlement of the war is about to begin.

A pause to reconsider is clearly indicated. Our foreign policy has had noble aims. But it has been conducted in a series of separate compartments, Baruch for atomic energy, Gen. MacArthur for Japan, Gen. Marshall himself for China, the navy department for the Pacific island bases, Byrnes for eastern Europe, half a dozen different agencies for economic relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction, Braden on the one hand and in Messersmith on the other for South America.

* * *

THERE HAVE been excellent theater commanders but there has been no chief of staff who, keeping in mind the total power, influence and resources of the United States, was able to tell each of them how much support to expect. Lacking that over-all direction, one might say budgeting of our diplomatic resources and interests, many of the separate policy-makers have promised what they could not deliver, have made demands they could not enforce, and have developed issues which are dead end streets.

When we resume the discussion, having had a chance to review and reconsider the matter, we should insist not on narrowing it to the Baruch plan but on broadening it even beyond the scope of the resolution of the assembly to include total military power. For our true interest is to maintain a balance of power throughout the world until there is a general political settlement in Europe and in Asia.

In the negotiation about atomic energy, our primary emphasis could then be placed upon obtaining acceptance of the American plan for the nonmilitary development of atomic energy.

* * *

THE PROBLEM which has preoccupied us so much—namely, how to enforce guaranties against the treacherous military use of atomic energy—will have to be met by something better than a fine-spun amendment of the voting procedure in the security council.

Perhaps as good a way as any to meet the problem would be to declare that, if there is in the opinion of the United States clear evidence of a flagrant violation, we shall consider it an unfriendly act, a case of aggression, that we shall feel free to act in self-defense under Article 51 of the charter of the United Nations.

We can go further if we choose. We can say that we shall not assist in the development of an atomic energy plant in any country which does not make a similar declaration under Article 51; and that we shall reserve the right to veto the erection of atomic energy plants by the international authority in any other continent until a sufficient number of countries have made the same declaration.

Thus we should retain not only the right to enforce the agreement but the ability to enforce it. And we should be remaining within the terms of the charter.

DEPRESSION GAVE FRIENDLY HOUSE 'WRONG-SIDE-OF-TRACKS' DIRECTOR

By KEN WOODMAN
(News-Journal Executive Editor)

Russell Gimbel, director of Friendly House settlement on North Main streets, doesn't mind telling you he was born on the wrong side of the tracks.

In fact, Gimbel and his wife, the former Mary Karcher, laughingly recall that their romance culminated in the marriage of "a man from 'the flats' and a girl from the 'better' end of town."

The Gimbels talk about all this frankly, because they have devoted the last 14 years of their lives to eradicating the city's social barrier at Fourth street. They have not gone out and given high-sounding lectures. They have worked day and night with people of all racial groups and economic situations in "the flats" and they have made their home among these people at Friendly House. Gimbel knows the problems first hand; and he knows how to lick them from personal experience.

* * *

BORN AT THE CORNER of Sixth and Franklin streets shortly after the turn of the century, Gimbel attended grade school at Bushnell and Newman. Speaking of those days, he says:

"I used to get up at three in the morning to help deliver milk. After school I worked in my father's cigar factory stripping tobacco."

Gimbel got enough of tobacco there. He hasn't smoked to this day.

In the summertime, he heated links for chains at the old American Chain company on Longview avenue where Author Jim Tully also once worked. Or, Gimbel went out and picked berries to earn money.

He went to Mansfield Senior high school for exactly one day!

On what would have been his second day he took a job with the Ohio Brass company as office boy at $15 a month.

But Gimbel continued his schooling while he worked. He went to night classes at the old high school on the site of the present John Simpson junior high. He studied business administration, salesmanship and accounting. He also took correspondence courses.

* * *

AFTER 16 YEARS, Gimbel found himself with a responsible position in the O.B. sales department. He had been active in sports since his grade school days and he continued to play baseball and basketball on a professional basis. Football was out after 1923 when he permanently injured his left knee during a game.

On the basketball courts he played with the "Great Americans."

"Karl Schaeffer, Brig and Bob Young, Jim LeMunyon, Harold Teevers, William Marquis and Charles Nail were among my teammates." Gimbel recalls. The Great Americans were "big time"; they played a number of leading eastern teams, including Washington and Buffalo.

Gimbel also played with the Great Americans baseball team and then went on to appear on the "Trolley league" diamonds. This league included Marion, Galion, Crestline, Upper Sandusky—the towns that could be reached on the old Cleveland Southwestern trolley line. The games drew big crowds and produced some exceptional players.

For four years in the late 'twenties, Gimbel capitalized on his sports associations by operating a sporting goods store at the site of the present Perez photographic studio while he was still working at Ohio Brass.

* * *

IT WAS THE DEPRESSION and Mrs. Gimbel which really gave Friendly House its present director.

Came 1933 and Gimbel found himself one of the last men to be laid off by Ohio Bass. His wife, a kindergarten teacher by profession, was then working at Friendly House. The director's job was open and she urged him to apply for it.

Gimbel was hired. During the mornings he took special courses at Ashland college to increase his knowledge of the work. Afternoons and evenings he was on the job at the settlement.

There were 335 youngsters enrolled then. Now there are about 800. At one time there were 1,100.

But that figure had to be reduced because of the decrepit—even dangerous—condition of the building. This condition is going to be remedied with the erection of a new, modern structure on North Mulberry street as a result of the recent drive to raise $60,000 toward a building fund. The city's manufacturers are contributing the remainder of the necessary $235,000 as the first step in Mansfield's "Operation Tomorrow," a campaign for better social agency housing.

To the Gimbels, assurance of this new building is a 14-year-old dream come true. It is not a dream for themselves. To them it means a better chance to help the hundreds of youngsters they know and love.

* * *

LOOKING BACK, it seems impossible that Gimbel ever contemplated leaving Friendly House because it is such an integral part of his life. But he did think about it seriously.

The depression was over. Ohio Brass asked him to come back to work. It was a good offer. Gimbel did go back for two months, carrying on his Friendly House job at the same time while trying to make up his mind which was to be his career.

"One afternoon at the end of the two months," Gimbel says, "I was walking past the Creamer hotel on my way home from the plant. A delegation of little boys from Friendly House met me. They might not have been very impressive-looking to anyone else. But they were in dead earnest. I could see it on their faces.

"They said: 'Mr. Gimbel, if you don't quit that job at the factory and come back to play with us at Friendly House, we're going to picket the plant.'

"That," Gimbel concluded, "is why I'm still director of Friendly House."

Pennsylvania, Too, Joins Trend to Diesel Engines

Coal-burning locomotives are not exactly on the way out. But Diesel electric locomotives are definitely on the way in.

Even the Pennsylvania Railroad, which for years has stuck to its coal-burning engines, announced today that it had placed orders for 25 Diesel locomotives. This is in addition to orders for 22 Diesel engines, first of which is expected to be delivered this morning.

At present the Pennsylvania operates one electric Diesel engine, the Red Arrow, which makes an early morning stop in Mansfield on its way to Detroit, and a stop in the evening on the return trip to Harrisburg.

A spokesman for the railroad emphasized that Pennsylvania is not abandoning coal burning engines. He said that 75 modern coal-burning locomotives were built for the company in recent months.

In announcing the $30,400,000 Diesel program, the company declared it is "keeping fully abreast of every modern development in all forms of motive power."

The Erie Railroad has a number of Diesel-powered locomotives on its freight runs through Mansfield.

Besides her sister, with whom she made her home, Miss Burghard is survived by several nieces and nephews, all of this city.

Service will be conducted Friday at 1 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home by Rev. Guy Hartman, pastor of the United Brethren church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Mansfield Men Back From Trip

Four Mansfield representatives of the Pennsylvania Rubber and Supply company were back today from an air trip to the sales training session at the R. M. Hollingshead company, Camden, N. J.

The session, attended by Harry Wilson, local branch manager of the supply company, and George Workman, George French, and Charles Boughton, signaled the employment of air transportation to stimulate sales. The Mansfielders were transported to and from the training session in a Douglas DC-3C, purchased by the Hollingshead company.

BIDS INVITED

Sealed bids will be received until 2 p. m. Jan. 30 for proposed alterations in the office of internal revenue, room 3, Post Office building, Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford said today. Bidding forms and specifications may be obtained at the postmaster's office.

Up and Down The Street

CLUBS, PLEASE NOTE—

The Chamber of Commerce, which generally has all the answers, has found itself minus a few—namely, the presidents and secretaries of the city's several score clubs, lodges and other organizations. In order to complete their file, workers at the chamber are urging that these organizations mail a penny post card to the office with the names of the president and secretary and the length of term each will serve. Some work has been completed on this project, but the chamber still needs information from the following: business and professional clubs, civic clubs, labor clubs and unions, men's and women's clubs, music and dramatic clubs, patriotic and politicial clubs, Parent-Teachers' associations, sororities and fraternities, service clubs, sports clubs and trade associations.

THEY'RE LIONS NOW—

The Halloween-like figures running through the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night were just innocent "victims" of an initiation. Dressed in funny hats, gay colored aprons, and adorned with hugh putty noses, they were Mansfield Lions club "cubs" undergoing their initiation into the organization. Initiated as Lions were Kenneth W. Bell, James E. Dunham, Corlis Keller, George Condos, Ralph Constance, William Ernest, Robert Swiney, Oscar Krebs and Samuel Barrows.

IT'S A TRADITION—

Following the family tradition of enlisting in the navy, Roy Bernard McLaughlin, Mansfield, R. D. 5, became the sixth member of the Mansfield family to join the ranks of the navy when he enlisted in the V-6 Inactive Reserve. He also is the first enlistee in V-6 under the new ruling which states that eligible men between the ages of 17 and 18½ years and 30 and 39 years may enlist even though they may not have had prior service in the armed forces.

The McLaughlin family naval service dates back to the time when one member served with Admiral Dewey at Manila bay in 1898.

COLD GROUNDS AIR GIANT—The severe cold wave that swept into Mansfield Tuesday grounded a giant Army twin-engined C-47 cargo plane from Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., at municipal airport for a day. Cooled by the severe cold, the two 1,250 horse power engines emitted only a disconcerting moan when efforts were made to start them. The plane remained at the airport until portable gasoline heaters were flown from Washington to warm the engines.

Court Bans Union Check-off by City

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Check-off of union dues of civil service employes was held unconstitutional by the state supreme court today.

The question arose in a Dayton case. City council there approved an ordinance authorizing the city finance director to make payroll deductions of union dues for city employes who were members of the AFL's Dayton Public Service Union.

PROSECUTOR INVESTIGATES COMPLAINTS

Charge of Mail Tampering Is Aired By Officials at Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS—Investigations were continuing today under the direction of County Prosecutor Leo Scanlon and Probate Judge Constance R. Keller into reported "cruelties" and other irregularities at the Crawford county home.

The inquiry was the result of a conference with three Crawford county citizens, who reportedly related incidents of inhuman treatment to relatives and friends living at the county institution.

Charges centered against an attendant known only to inmates as "Mr. Jones," who, Supt. Harold Dinkel said, was an inmate but assisted in work about the home.

* * *

Censorship Charged.

Officials also promised to investigate charges of tampering with mail of inmates, who told investigators that both incoming and outgoing mail was censored.

The charges were bared by three witnesses who, by request, met Tuesday with Prosecutor Scanlon, Judge Keller and the county commissioners.

The witnesses were Mrs. Nell Koons, of Bucyrus, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tellhorster, of Chatfield.

* * *

'Brother' Punished.

Mrs. Koons told the county officials that her brother, who has been a resident of the home, was "punished" by being given less comfortable quarters after he had visited her home overnight. She testified that she had obtained permission from the home for her brother to stay with her.

The Tellhorsters, who said they frequently visited a friend at the home, asserted that some of the residents feared supervisors at the home.

They testified that one resident told them, "I'm afraid to say anything because I'll suffer for it," and another told how a supervisor refused an inmate the right to put on a sweater when he felt cold.

Harold Dinkel, superintendent of the home, denied the charges and defended the institution. Prosecutor Scanlon told the officials, "what we are after now is humane treatment."

6 SPEEDERS AMONG 8 MOTORISTS FINED

Eight motorists were fined a total of $80 and costs yesterday in traffic court. Six were charged with speeding.

Fined $15 and costs on a charge of unsafe operation was Chester M. Miller, 93 Helen avenue. George G. Kitrenas, 53 Glenwood avenue, was fined the court costs of $6.30 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with illegal lights.

Case of G. W. Bahl, 109 West Second street, charged with failing to stop after an accident and failing to display an operators' license, was continued until next Wednesday.

Stanley Brinley, 634 Grant street, was fined $15 and costs on a speeding charge. Fined $10 and costs each on speeding charges were Glenn C. Whitmore, Mansfield, R. D. 3; David C. Copper, 88 East Arch street; Arthur Sprecker, 715 Dickson parkway; Glen L. Matthews, Mansfield, R. D. 5 and William J. Hipsher, Shelby.

Teachers' Group Sets Up Meeting

Frank Zack, public relations officer for the United States Teachers Association, will conduct an informal discussion of the purposes of the organization Saturday in the Mansfield-Leland Hotel ballroom. The meeting, which starts at 2 p. m., is open to Mansfield and Richland county teachers.

Adam Nickum, a founder of the association, said that "it is not a union and is opposed to labor unions within the teaching profession." He added that the association is "a non-profit corporation and must conduct itself according to rules and regulations governing corporations."

The platform of the association calls for a $2400 minimum and a $5,000 maximum on salaries. Other points emphasized are: correction of deplorable working conditions and recognition of experience, ethics and tenure.

Chinese Welcome New Year 4635

NEW YORK —(AP)— Some of New York's Chinese were too westernized to pay all their debts before midnight, but many other of the old customs were observed as the year 4635—by Chinese reckoning—was welcomed on Pell and Mott streets.

The parade yesterday afternoon had the traditional smoke-belching dragon and costumed dragonmen.

FURNACE STARTS FIRE

AKRON—(INS)—Damage was estimated today at $5,000 in a two-alarm fire in an Akron building last night. An overheated coal furnace in a basement was blamed for the fire, which spread to a first-floor restaurant and routed a family from a second-floor residence.

National Pro Loop Has 3 Resolutions Up For Discussion

CHICAGO —(AP)— Broadening of the powers of Commissioner Bert Bell, stricter surveillance of the players and expansion of the playing schedule were principal topics on the agenda as national football league club owners opened their annual three-day meeting here today.

Bell was expected to make a full report on the attempt to fix the national league's championship game and to recommend that the commissioner be empowered to banish for life football players who consort with gamblers. Under present rules, the commissioner can exile only those parties actually convicted of participation in gambling for lesser offenses, Bell may suspend players indefinitely.

The commissioner said he would offer the following resolution to the owners in a move to keep professional football gamble-proof:

Any knowledge of, or the attempt to offer a bribe to fix a ball game by players, coaches, directors, stockholders of anyone connected with a national league club, must be reported to the coach or owner, who in turn, must report it to the commissioner's office. Failure to do so will either result in a definite suspension, or indefinite suspension or life suspension.

Previously Bell had asked that the league teams press in their respective states for an anti-bribery law similar to the one in New York, where an offer to bribe is sufficient to convict.

He said he would make no decision now on the future of Merle Hapes and Frank Filchock, the two members of the New York Giants who were offered bribes, but who failed to report the offer to club officials and now are under suspension.

One of the rules changes, recommended by the league's rules committee and which appeared likely to be adopted, was one which would increase the number of game officials from four to five.

Giants Get Gowdy.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Hank Gowdy, 57-year-old ex-coach of the Boston Braves and Cincinnati Reds, joined the New York Giants as a coach today, rounding out the staff which already included Ralph Kress and Travis Jackson.

Racing, too—but not baseball Organized baseball long since cleaned its house are never reported It's all done in cash

A great editor, spotting the current flare-up in gambling "fix" stories, asked this reporter a few questions of the type today puzzling the public generally namely

How do the gamblers go about "fixing" games? How do the gamblers work up big betting clienteles? And—why can't the gamblers be caught and the 'fixing' evil stomped out?

You go into the underworld and get the answers in A-B-C language

First of all, there's a great deal of loose easy dough around - undeclared money black market money and the like Also good-wages money and 'high income tax bracket' money

So there's a gambling craze on all over the nation with the public betting on anything from the rags to intercollegiate and big-time professional football and baseball contests

College basketball and hockey games are staged in big-time style in large indoor arenas scoring thousands the baseball parks in season are jammed Sunday pro football games often in the play away from the big Saturday college contests as spectacles and in betting fervor, the race tracks are thronged and even the housewives and shop girls know how to read the scratch sheets and figure the odds.

Everywhere there is betting The new 'point system' is in vogue, wherein you bet not only what team will win but by how many points

Gamblers and bookmakers are enjoying an unprecedented field day. Bets range from a dollar to 50 or 100 thousand dollars

The "undeclared money" is being given a whirl. If a man makes, say 100 thousand a year, he's turning back to the government almost two-thirds that sum in income taxes. So he has become a spender, and a bettor.

Gambling winnings are virtually impossible to trace, and they

Thrift, as a good old American policy seems to be passe Everybody seems to be after quick easy money—and Americans like to take a chance

This condition is a perfect setup for the gamblers The "smart thing" racketeers and the bookmakers are wallowing in prosperity They can't lose because they have the gambling "percentage" always working in their favor.

If you bet against the roulette wheel the gamblers have a five per cent 'edge' If you lay a bet on a horse the percentage against you is as high as 16 per cent (counting taxes, mutuel breakage etc) and so on down the line

Profits are so enormous today for the gamblers that they have become greedy and money-mad That's where the "fix" comes in

The gamblers are not satisfied with substantial profits – they want to go whole hog So when they note that the public is crazed up over some big game they say

"Let's see if we can put in the fix' and do some betting on a sure thing"

So they look around for star players to corrupt They start 'using contacts' It isn't so hard nowadays to make such contacts what with players traveling 'round the country and meeting all kinds of people in various cities Supervision of athletics is not as strict as it used to be

They get acquainted with the stars and begin to 'work on them'

Take the case of Alvin J Paris, one Brooklyn would-be 'fixer' of the New York Giants-Chicago Bears football play-off He threw a cocktail party or two, and had some of the players and their wives present.

Later he took a couple of the star athletes to various night clubs, along with a bevy of pretty show girls and models and a good time was had by all. Paris always picked up the tab

Finally, he got around to talking "throwing" the game. It's that easy.

Other gamblers operate in different ways, depending upon what seems to be the right course. For instance, a Boston gambler might know a player who is now a star on a New York team So he resumes old acquaintanceship, and —at the proper time—gives out with talk on how to make a little easy money"

A majority of the star athletes are young fellows of 19, 20 or 21 If they are college athletes they don't get paid and if they are just breaking into the professional ranks they are only beginning to feel their way around" and getting used to having money in their pockets.

All the gamblers have to do to "fix" a football contest, for example, is to corrupt one or two of the key players, such as the quarter-back or a star backfield runner.

In basketball the key man to get is the chap who stars at tossing baskets.

It's an almost impossible matter for gamblers to arrange for a baseball game to be 'thrown' because too many players would have to be involved. No major league game has been thrown since 1919 when the Chicago Black Sox threw the world series to the Cincinnati Reds

The 64 dollar question 'How to stop the gamblers?' is one that is puzzling district attorneys, mayors of cities, legislators and other

One helpful factor is publicity civic-minded people today and to their credit it must be said that the newspapers and radio stations of America are doing their share to keep the problem out in the open with a view of punishing the guilty and putting a stop to the "fixing" evil.
